For 30 years, the Amity Foundation has been making persistent efforts in exploring the way of building a special social development zone.
The year 2015 marks the 30th Anniversary of the Amity Foundation. We designed a special logo to celebrate our 30th anniversary.

In the form of a Chinese character “卅” meaning “thirty”, the logo depicts Amity’s footprints in its history of 30 years. Looking like the parallel arrangement of crosses, the logo also illustrates the Christian root of the Amity Foundation as a faith-based organization.

The interconnection of strokes in the logo symbolizes the situation that Amity thrives in a world where connection and interaction of different sectors and cultures prevail. Underscoring the interconnection is the Internet, which will play a pivotal role in Amity’s future development.
In the spring of 1985, thirty years ago, when the reform and opening up policy had been endorsed and full-scale reconstruction was underway, Chinese Christian leaders led by Bishop K. H. Ting and Dr. Wenzao Han were profoundly struck by the extent of China’s social needs. To encourage Christians and the church to become more socially involved and to serve more people, they established Amity Foundation with help from people coming from different walks of life.

Like a white pony flashing by, time has elapsed and Amity Foundation has reached maturity.

For the last three decades, Amity, the earliest faith-based foundation in mainland China, has devoted itself to China’s social development and opening up. It has paved a significant trail for Christians to participate in social service, and enriched and enhanced China’s non-governmental exchanges with other parts of the world in both form and content. Like spring rains silently nurturing life, it has nourished a diversified, open and vibrant “Special Philanthropic Zone”. Amity’s work has boosted understanding and garnered widespread acknowledgment of Chinese Christian contributions to the country. According to Amity’s founder, Bishop Ting, “It ought to be a natural result, rather than a goal, of our good work, to let society be aware of Christians’ contributions, because the task that confronts us, of satisfying people’s needs, is too urgent.” This urgent task has invariably prompted innovation and development in Amity’s work.

For the last three decades, there have been tremendous changes in Amity’s political, economic and social environment as well as in people’s awareness of religion and philanthropy. In pursuit of its historical mission, Amity will greet the next ten, thirty years and even longer with resilience and lasting vitality.

The “internet wave” has brought immense changes to people’s social lives. Social communication and information sharing are no longer confined by time, space or distance. People are partaking in philanthropy in an unprecedentedly convenient way. Ren-ren Philanthropy (or Philanthropy by everyone) is no longer just a dream. Instead, it is being infused in our daily life and will increasingly influence our social actions. Philanthropy not only brings benefits to society but educates as well. As it lauds humanity and is manifested in acts of kindness, the role of philanthropy in social education will be better appreciated in present-day China. Amity will continue its social witness in accordance with the san ming principles of transparency (ming xing), wisdom (ming hui) and virtue (ming dao).

The world is developing and China is progressing. Now that all are part of the global village, peace and development calls for win-win cooperation among governments, partnership and sharing among NGOs across countries, south-south and north-south cooperation. Cooperation should be the international mainstream. Amity will continue to probe new paths and approaches to internationalization thereby contributing our humble efforts to the internationalization of China’s philanthropy.

No matter how much the world is transformed, the human pursuit of love and peace will always remain unchanged. The more people participate in philanthropy, the more people will benefit from it. Today, we are gathered together under the banner of philanthropy, celebrating the 30th anniversary of Amity Foundation. We are grateful to the governments at all levels and friends from all sectors for their support and help. We are also thankful for being part of Amity’s service that has so enriched our lives.

We ask that Amity be blessed and that the earth’s bountiful resources be blessed and protected through our love and care.
A Journey of 30 Years

Committed to its vision and mission, the Amity Foundation has been persistently implementing development and service projects in rural and urban areas for 30 years.

In the three decades, Amity has raised funds of over RMB 2,000 million at home and abroad.
Amity has trained 23,900 village medical workers and has built 704 village clinics.
Amity has launched 50 initiatives of disaster relief and post-disaster reconstruction, with accumulated spending of donation of over RMB 220,000,000.
Amity has financially supported 427,771 poverty-stricken students of primary and secondary schools and 896 poverty-stricken college students to enjoy formal education.
Amity has enabled hope for 17,111 rural orphans with financial support and has facilitated the reconstruction of 462 primary schools in poverty-stricken rural areas.
Amity’s blindness prevention program enabled brightness and hope for over 100,000 beneficiaries.
Amity has provided eldercare to over 100,000 elders in urban communities.
Amity has assisted the government to implement venture philanthropy and government purchase projects costing RMB 30,000,000 and has supported the start-up of over 300 grassroots NGOs.
The population of foreigners volunteering with Amity’s education and international exchange programs reached 3,500, directly benefiting dozens of thousand people.
Amity’s online fundraising efforts have resulted in over 20,000,000 online donations, totaling over RMB 80,000,000.
Amity has printed 140,000,000 copies of the Bible in over 100 languages for over 70 countries.
Commemorating the Centennial Birth Anniversary of Bishop K. H. Ting

The year 2015 marks the 100th Birth Anniversary of the late Bishop K. H. Ting, President of the Amity Foundation.

Bishop K. H. Ting was Chairperson of the Three-Self Patriotic Movement of the Protestant Churches in China (TSPM) and President of the China Christian Council. Bishop K. H. Ting had also held a number of political posts. He was a vice-chairman of the Chinese People's Political Consultative Conference (1989–2008), and a member of the National People's Congress, China's legislature. Bishop K. H. Ting served as the president of Nanjing Union Theological Seminary for more than 50 years.

As the founder of the Amity Foundation, Bishop K. H. Ting had made tremendous contributions to the great cause of spreading love, serving society and benefiting the people.

Though with different faith backgrounds, we work together on the same cause of spreading love while driven by respective faiths. This fact reveals the significance of the Amity Foundation.

Bishop K. H. Ting
LOVE NEVER ENDS
We are a team.
We are a family.
We are the future.
The Amity Foundation, an independent Chinese voluntary organization, was founded in 1985 on the initiative of Chinese Christians to promote education, health, social welfare, community service, community development, environmental protection, disaster relief, poverty reduction and disaster relief in China and other parts of the world. Amity projects have benefited more than ten million people at home and abroad.

In 1997, the Amity Foundation was awarded the title of National Exemplary Organization for Helping the Disabled by the central government of China; In 1999, the Amity Foundation was awarded the honor of Exemplary Organization for National Unity and Progress by the central government of China;
In 2006, the Amity Foundation won the National Prize for Poverty Eradication; In 2008, the Amity Foundation won the China Charity Award; In 2009, the Amity Foundation was awarded the honor of Exemplary Organization for National Unity and Progress again by the central government of China; In 2010, the Amity Foundation was awarded the Prize of Social Innovation in China; In 2011, the Amity Foundation was granted the AAAAA-Grade NGO status; In 2012, the Amity Foundation was awarded the title of the Enabler of Charity in China; In 2013, the Amity Foundation was awarded the title of Annual Exemplar Charity of Transparency and won China's Annual Prize for Charity Information Disclosure Excellence; In 2014, the Amity Foundation was granted the special consultative status by the United Nations' Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC).
Congratulations

Greetings to the 30th Anniversary of Amity Foundation

“But have reverence for Christ in your hearts, and honour him as Lord. Be ready at all times to answer anyone who asks you to explain the hope you have in you, but do it with gentleness and respect.” (1 Peter 3:15-16)

Commemorating an anniversary is always a joyful occasion and an opportunity to renew acquaintances and strengthen friendships. It is, therefore, with great joy and thanksgiving that the World Council of Churches joins the great cloud of witnesses from around the world in celebrating the 30th anniversary of the Amity Foundation.

We owe this occasion to the great vision and commitment of our fathers and mothers in the faith who had the foresight to give birth to a Christian organization committed to serving and sharing with the wider Chinese society. I think it would be safe to say that although their hopes were great and their prayers greater not many would have anticipated that the Amity Foundation would have grown to be the premier NGO in China. Neither would they have known that the Amity Foundation would mature and grow to the stature of being an incubator for other NGOs in China, sharing their best practices and enabling the new organizations to learn from their experiences.

The meaning of Amity in Chinese is a combination of two terms, love and virtue which can also be synonymous with grace. Throughout the 30 years of its work the Amity Foundation has definitely lived up to its namesake. Love for Christ and love for the people of China bore fruit in the 30 years of ecumenical partnership with churches from around the world. Love for Christ and love for the people of China has been the greatest source of strength and motivation for numerous volunteers and staff who have served the various projects during the past 30 years with commitment and sacrifice. This history of love has graced the lives of countless thousands of Chinese, whether they have been students trained by Amity English teachers or victims of natural disasters or recipients of training through the incubation program.

As Chinese society evolves and the socio-economic context of China develops further we can assume that there will be more occasions when Amity’s love and virtue/grace are needed. I am sure that Christians around the world will continue to pray and accompany the work of the Amity Foundation so that God’s abundant love in Christ will be manifest itself in the lives of the people of China. The WCC, as one of the ecumenical partners, will remain committed to the vision and mission of our colleagues in Amity Foundation as we look toward the next thirty years of your commitment and service to the people of China and beyond as the Amity Foundation seeks to extend its work to other parts of the world in need of love and virtue/grace.

Dear General Secretary, Mr. Qiu Zhonghui

It is with a sense of profound appreciation and admiration that ACT Alliance congratulates the Amity Foundation on its 30th anniversary this year.

Your journey has been impressive. As one of the first Chinese NGOs following China’s Reform and Opening-up to the Outside World you have in just three decades grown to nearly 100 professionals and developed partnerships with more than 200 overseas churches and social organisations, and every step you have made has left an important mark.

One of ACT Alliance’s first emergency responses after its formation in early 2010 was in reaction to the April 2010 6.9 magnitude earthquake that struck Yushu, resulting in devastating casualties and loss of life. Your immediate response capacity enabled the Alliance to stand as one, raising nearly USD 650,000 for an emergency response to offer support for the many people left homeless and in urgent need of lifesaving relief.

In the five years since, and before, the Amity Foundation has provided much needed relief and psychosocial support in China, notably after the 2008 Wenchuan earthquake, the 2010 Yushu earthquake and the 2613 Yuan earthquake. You have done this each time highlighting that you are a member of the ACT Alliance family. I thank you for this invaluable contribution to the strengthening of ACT Alliance.

I personally recall the warm reception I received from you and your staff at your head office in Nanjing in May 2011, and the visits to the areas and communities that had been affected by the earthquake. I was thoroughly impressed with the excellent work of Amity working in partnerships with the local authorities in assisting the affected people. The professionalism and dedication of your staff to their work was humbling to me. Your contribution to the strengthening of the ACT Alliance while you served on the governing board of the alliance deserves mention.

We look forward to our continued and increased collaboration in the next 30 years, and please pass my congratulations to all staff and board members of Amity on this occasion of 30th anniversary of your excellent service to the marginalized and people in need.

Yours Sincerely,

John Nduna
General Secretary

Dear Mr Qiu Zhenghui, and Board and Staff of Amity Foundation,

Greetings in the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ!

On behalf of the UBS Fellowship, we wish to thank God and congratulate you on the 30th Anniversary of the founding of Amity Foundation.

Amity Foundation is a pioneer and trailblazer in social service and community development by a Non Government Organization in China. In the early years of the Reform and Opening Up Policy of China, Bishop K.H. Ting (the late National TSPM Chairman, CCC President and Amity Foundation Board Chairman) and Dr Han Wenzao (the late CCC President and Amity Foundation Secretary General) perceived the vision of and established the Amity Foundation in 1985.

As an independent Chinese voluntary organization, founded on the initiative of Chinese Christians, Amity Foundation was established to promote education, health, social welfare, community service, rural development, environmental protection, poverty alleviation, and disaster relief in China and overseas. Since its establishment, Amity Foundation has blessed and benefited more than ten million people in China and abroad.

The United Bible Societies (UBS) is honoured and privileged to be invited by Bishop Ting and Dr Han as one of the earliest partners with Amity Foundation. Bishop Ting signed a Memorandum of Understanding on behalf of Amity Foundation with UBS leaders on 22 March 1985 to set up the Amity Printing Press with the priority of printing Bibles to meet the great needs and demand for Bible in China. UBS contributed significant amount of fund and donated modern equipment to set up the Press. Subsequently, UBS contributed additional fund to become a joint venture partner of Amity Printing Company. In the early years, UBS also donated hundreds of metric tonnes of Bible paper to Amity Foundation for the printing of Bible, and sent management and technical staff to train and work with the local management and staff of the Company.

Through the strong friendship and close partnership between Amity Foundation, the Church in China and UBS, and with the solid support of the Chinese authorities, Amity Printing Company has grown to be one of the largest Bible printing presses in the world. It has printed more than 140 million copies of Bible: 70 million copies for Mainland China and 70 million copies for overseas. So, besides helping more than ten million people with their material, educational and social needs through the various initiatives and programmes, Amity Foundation, through the Amity Printing Company, has also blessed 140 million people with the Word of God. Amity Foundation is truly holistic in its ministry, meeting the physical, emotional, social and spiritual needs of its beneficiaries.

We want to thank God for His bountiful Grace and Blessings on Amity Foundation all these 30 years. We want to honour Bishop Ting and Dr Han and the founders for their vision and commitment. We also want to thank God for Mr Qiu and the Board members and staff and volunteers and partners of Amity Foundation for your continued commitment to, and love for, the poor and needy in society.

May the Lord continue to bless Amity Foundation so that many more in China and in the world will be blessed by its ministry!

Yours in the Love of Christ,

Dear Mr Qiu Zhonghui

The Anglican Board of Mission - Australia would like to express its warmest congratulations to the Amity Foundation on its thirtieth anniversary. We continue to give thanks for Bishop K H Ting and Amity’s other founding members for their vision in establishing the Foundation.

Throughout its history, Amity has worked to help the people of China in diverse ways. The organization dedicates itself to showing love towards others practically and seeks out opportunities to address disadvantage and disability. Over the years, Amity has continually demonstrated a strong commitment to professionalism and learning. It is for this reason that the Anglican Board of Mission has been both delighted and inspired to work in partnership with the Amity Foundation.

We ask God to continue to bless the work of Amity into the future.

Dear Qiu Zhonghui

Greetings from the Anglican Alliance.

On behalf of the Anglican Alliance, we send deepest congratulations to the Amity Foundation for its 30 years of witness and service.

Thank you very much for your kind invitation to attend the celebrations of your 30th anniversary on 6-8 November. I would be delighted to attend.

I look forward to learning more about the work of the Amity Foundation and to deepening our cooperation, already fostered by the presence of She Hongyu on our Global Advisory Council.

I am honoured to have been invited to this remarkable event and look forward to the celebrations and our partnership together over the coming years.

Yours in Christ

Congratulations on the 30th anniversary of Amity Foundation.

On behalf of Areopagos, we bring Amity Foundation heartfelt greetings on Amity’s 30th anniversary.

To us in Areopagos, Amity has been an important partner almost from its very beginning. With Amity, the door opened to take part in supporting our brothers and sisters in China. Already in 1996 our cooperation started, and developed with support to orphans, teaching of parents to children with mental disability and initiation of “grandmothers” to orphans.

In the 1990-90s, Amity developed a rehabilitation program for deaf and hearing impaired in Nanjing with a lab for hearing aid. Moreover, for more than 10 years we had the joy of seeing many communities being equipped with Body and Mind centers, where schools, health clinics and centers for women were combined.

Areopagos has always found Amity a competent and trustworthy development agency and partner. Our partnership is not as extensive as it has been, but we continue to appreciate the support that Amity gives to vulnerable children.

We are also impressed with how Amity has turned around and developed fundraising in China, enabling expansion in needy areas.

May God continue to bless Amity! We look forward to further cooperation.

Congratulations on the 30th Anniversary of The Amity Foundation:

It’s my great privilege to send greetings on behalf of The Baptist Convention of Hong Kong on the 30th Anniversary of The Amity Foundation. It has been an honor for our Convention to work closely with you for the past years. I pray God for his grace to continue to richly bless your faithfulness and broaden your service worldwide in future.

I am reminded of a special verse on this precious celebration: Philippians 1:5 “For your fellowship is the gospel from the first day until now.” May The Amity Foundation continue to fulfill the Lord’s Great Commission and be a strong witness for Jesus Christ in China and throughout the world.

Warmest Regards,

Greetings for the Amity Foundation 30th anniversary

Warm greetings from Churches Together in Britain and Ireland, the Trustees and staff, and all our member churches.

It is with enormous pleasure that CTBI offers our congratulations on the 30 years of service and commitment that the Amity Foundation has offered to the people of Jiangsu Province and the wider reaches of China through its work and witness. The success of the Amity Printing Press over the past 30 years is dramatic and inspiring. One of the greatest joys for us is to stand and watch Bibles come off the conveyor belt—one at a time, knowing that each Bible will be read and cherished. It is an added delight that the Press has utilised its ability to produce Bibles in many languages and dispatch them all over the world.

To be in partnership with the Amity Foundation has been an important part of CTBI’s commitment to our relationship with the people of China, and we take pleasure in your ongoing development and skills in so many areas of philanthropic and humanitarian work. We honour your dedication to ensuring best practice in all areas of your endeavours is upheld, and that your staff are effectively equipped to do this well.

The proficiency of your work in areas of disaster management, especially following the Sichuan earthquake is well documented and it is good to see this being recognised and appreciated. It is important for any humanitarian organisation to contribute towards the building up of a good society and it is clear that the Amity Foundation is part of that tradition.

The way the work of the Amity Foundation has been strengthened and sustained over these past 30 years is a tribute to the people in its employment and we wish to pay tribute to them. We take great delight in the way friendships between our respective staff members have developed and matured over the years and look forward to that continuing and deepening.

We wish you a wonderful anniversary and look forward to being a part of your ongoing work and witness for a further 30 years.

Sincerely,

Commemorative Message

On the occasion of the 30th Anniversary of the founding of The Amity Foundation, I, on behalf of the Board of Trustees of the CWM/Nethersole Fund in Hong Kong, have the honour of extending our sincere congratulations and warmest wishes to Amity for progress and continuous contributions for the betterment of the people and true harmony of the whole society.

Amity and our Fund share the same goal of achieving a better society by helping and supporting the needy with the love of Christ and the spirit of sharing. Amity has been walking with us side by side in the past 18 years, since our Fund was established and started to support their meaningful projects in 1997. Amity has devoted its every effort to help the disadvantaged groups, in particular, in poverty alleviation, social development works and special education training for the hearing impaired, as well as to provide medical health care and rehabilitation programmes to the most vulnerable groups in society.

The 30 years of dedication of Amity have yielded enormous fruits of mutual support and trust, betterment of people, as well as advancement of society. We are exceptional witnesses to these achievements.

May our God bless your good work and our continuous partnership in relation to serving the people to the full extent in the next decades, upholding our common goal --- loving, sharing and caring.

Letter of Congratulation

On the occasion of the 30th anniversary of the AMITY foundation the Evangelical Mission in Solidarity (EMS) is sending all good wishes. We are aware of that the work of the AMITY Foundation has brought about changes in the life of the people and of the communities. AMITY foundation is a living sign of the contribution NGOs and civil society can render to the society at large.

We especially appreciate the way AMITY is standing up for the rights of the marginalized and vulnerable for example through the legal aid program for migrants.

We will continue to pray for the programs of the AMITY foundation. May God bless all of you in order that the Amity foundation continues to be a blessing to the people in China.

With warm regards
Yours in Christ

Dear Qui Zhonghui,

On behalf of Episcopal Relief & Development, I would like to extend our sincerest congratulations and best wishes to the Amity Foundation on the organization’s 30th anniversary.

For nearly a decade, Episcopal Relief & Development and the Amity Foundation have partnered on integrated development projects that bring improved social, environmental and economic outcomes to communities throughout China. The Amity Foundation’s multi-sector programs have had a significant positive impact on the lives of marginalized people, especially ethnic minorities. The organization’s dedication to participatory and homegrown approaches to empowering the underserved is unmatched. The Amity Foundation’s immense disaster assessment, response and recovery efforts set it apart in the field of humanitarian relief.

Episcopal Relief & Development looks forward to the coming years, as together we explore further opportunities for partnership between our organizations. As a leader in the ecumenical community of development and relief agencies, the Amity Foundation will continue to prove to be a great asset to Episcopal Relief & Development and our other partners.

Congratulations again on the Amity Foundation’s great accomplishments in the field of social development the past 30 years, and for many more years to come.

CONGRATULATIONS ON AMITY’S 30TH ANNIVERSARY

Friends of the Church in China members send sincere greetings and congratulations to the Amity Foundation as you celebrate your 30th anniversary! We share in your joy on this occasion, as you mark three decades of inspiring activity.

As FCC was also established at almost the same time as Amity, we have been privileged to join you on your journey from the beginning and we want to record our gratitude for the vision and foresight of Amity’s founding members.

We have witnessed the expansion of your work from small beginnings to a huge programme across many parts of China, and the growth of projects not only geographically but also into many varied fields of work. It has been a privilege to visit, and in some cases to assist with, projects of many kinds in different locations and we have constantly been impressed by Amity’s ability to push boundaries and move into new and innovative programmes. Throughout the years, FCC members have cherished the opportunities to participate in Amity’s teaching programmes, both long-term and short.

You have taken seriously the need for transparency in your activities and been a model for others in this respect, as well as now playing a role in nurturing formative NGOs. We admire your dedicated staff and have been delighted to welcome a number of them to UK for language study programmes.

We are continually impressed by the way in which you work alongside people, demonstrating Christian love and compassion and listening to the needs of those you are serving. It is an honour for us in FCC to be your partners and we wish you strength and courage as you respond to the challenges of the years ahead.

To the General Secretary, staff of Amity Foundation and local partners

Congratulations! Thirty years!

The Finnish Evangelical Lutheran Mission (FELM) wishes to congratulate the Amity Foundation on the occasion of its 30th celebration. We are glad and privileged to be a long-time partner and friend of Amity Foundation.

The good fruits we see in Amity Foundation’s work was not done overnight. It is the outcome of the diligent work, dedication and vision of Amity’s leadership and the full support of the local partners. We celebrate with you the achievements of the Amity Foundation. These accomplishments require a commitment to the community, a concern for others, an unselfish altruism and God’s guidance.

FELM is looking forward to cultivate our partnership in the years to come. May God continue to bless Amity and the various areas of Amity’s services.

Dear Mr. Qiu:

It with pleasure and profound gratitude that we celebrate with you Amity Foundation’s 30th anniversary!

And it is with greater delight and thanksgiving to God that we celebrate Global Ministries’ 30 years journey of partnership with Amity Foundation!

The work of Amity speaks for itself, in terms of its social relevance and effectiveness in the areas of rural development, education, health, work amongst the elderly, the differently-abled, the orphans and children of migrant workers, and in NGO incubation. We are witnesses to Amity’s capacity to infuse its work with love for God and neighbors.

Thank you for all that you do and will continue to do in the coming years. May you be empowered and blessed as you enter a new decade of working to alleviate human suffering not only in China but in various parts of the world where you have been called to share your expertise and your gifts.

Grace and peace,

Dear Friends at Amity Foundation...

I am delighted to congratulate the Amity Foundation on 30 years of outreach in the Peoples Republic of China! In your three decades of outreach, Amity has expanded into the largest Christian charity in the great nation of China. Whether carrying out social programs or the printing of Christian materials and Bibles, Amity’s reputation is respected far and wide!

I’m grateful for the significant partnership Joni and Friends enjoys with Amity. Through the help of my coworke, Yaling Wang, a close association has developed between our organizations. In 2008, Joni and Friends sent a therapist to help with Amity Children’s Development Center and their outreach to young people with autism. In 2009, our Cause4Life interns served with Amity. In 2010, Joni and Friends became involved with the Amity International Autism Conference – a national gathering which has enjoyed significant impact among Chinese families with children who have autism...

In 2011, Amity representatives visited the US to learn how our ministry runs retreats for special-needs families; in that same year, the president of Joni and Friends, Doug Mazza, and our vice president, Steve Bundy, visited Amity. In 2012, Joni and Friends and Amity provided disability ministry training to local organizations, including 65 pastors. In 2013, we began a work together which has resulted in annual Family Retreats and Wheels for the World distributions in China. I thank God for our relationship with our good friends at Amity Foundation!

I pray that God will continue to bless the exceptional work of Amity throughout China. Your strong sense of Christian compassion for the weak and vulnerable is a powerful testimony of your love and devotion for the God of the Bible. Your commitment to help families, churches and communities shows your desire to enrich large regions in China with a culture of Christian compassion. So on behalf of all of your friends at the Joni and Friends International Disability Center, I pray, “May the Lord repay you for what you have done; may you be richly rewarded by the Lord, the God of Israel” (Ruth 2:12).

Yours in His care,

Joni Eareckson Tada
Greetings from the Methodist Church in Britain!
It is with great joy that the Methodist Church joins the many friends of Amity around the world in congratulating the Foundation on 30 years of very impressive work and in wishing its General Secretary and all staff members many more successes and achievements.
The Methodist Church is proud to have been involved with Amity for the whole of its life – our partnership is also 30 years old! Perhaps at that age it is just entering the best years of its life. We certainly look forward to achieving even more in the next thirty years of our friendship.
One of our great joys in recent years has been to see that, as we offer what partnership we can to Amity, we are now surrounded by many more friends and supporters, most of them from within China, and we are glad to be part of this large and growing company.
The increasing proficiency that we see being demonstrated by the Amity organisation and its staff is exciting - whether in emergency relief work after natural disasters, in community development empowering local people or in sharing organisational expertise with neighbourhood groups. These are important building blocks in building a strong, caring society.
On behalf of our President and Vice President, I offer these congratulations in hope of our continuing partnership.

Dear Friends at Amity Foundation,

First of all, let us congratulate you on the 30th anniversary of the Amity Foundation.

Take this opportunity we would like to acknowledge that the Amity Foundation has been a good friend to people in China for the last three decades as taking a role of salt and light in the era of reform and open door in China.

We are especially grateful that the Amity Foundation shows its passionate commitment and frontier spirit towards the formation of a new civil society in China in the 21st century.

Through an effort of Rev. Jongsoo Kim, a director of NAMSC, we are now in a relationship with the Amity Foundation as an important ecumenical partner. We can also introduce the spirit and projects of the Amity Foundation to the Korean society and churches.

We have started an official exchange by NAMSC board of directors visiting Amity Foundation and China Christian Council in 2014. Especially we thank that we can have an opportunity to share our friendship by sending an emergency rescue fund (5,000 USD) when there was a big earthquake in Yunnan province.

We sincerely hope and wish that the Amity Foundation will continue to be a solid foundation and pioneer to serve and make China more beautiful and loving country by love and hope of Jesus Christ.

Dear Amity Foundation!

The Norwegian Mission Society (NMS) hereby heartily congratulates The Amity Foundation with 30 years of service!

As both Amity and NMS are faith-based organizations, we joyfully serve in partnership giving witness of our creator to all mankind. NMS has had the great pleasure of working together with The Amity Foundation since it was founded in 1985. We are proud to be an old friend of The Amity foundation as we joined hands from the very start.

During the last 30 years of cooperation we believe that Amity and its many overseas partners, have been a blessing to countless of people in China. We also believe that our partnership and joint efforts, have given an important contribution to the betterment of the lives of many people in China.

In the past 30 years, China as a nation has changed considerably. Chinese citizens in the eastern and central parts of the country have become more affluent. Amity has recognized this change and adjusted their strategies to the new situation. As a result of this, NMS was challenged to engage in development projects in less developed areas in the western part of China.

Recent years we have also experienced that Amity has been able to raise more and more funds in China. This is a sign of credibility and trustworthiness, which AMITY has earned through hard work and good results. The growing ability to raise funds within China is also a sign that Amity is becoming a mature organization.

Amity and NMS have in the last few years enjoyed exchanging students a student exchange program through NMS Connect at Hald International Center. This exchange program has been a real benefit for young people in experiencing different cultures and way of living.

We are delighted once again to congratulate Amity in their successful service to people in need. We are looking forward to cooperate in years to come to the benefit of people in need and to the Glory of God!

Please, accept our warmest wishes and sincere congratulations!

Best regards,

The Rev. Jens Huseby

A Congratulatory Message for the 30th Anniversary of Amity Foundation

I cordially congratulate on the 30th anniversary of Amity Foundation. The 30 years of the Foundation is a history of dedicated service for the people and society in China as a Christian faith-based institute. Especially the Foundation has showed a spirit of humility for the marginalized on the bases of true and universal love of Christ in order for healing and reconciling communities. We, PCK recognize it as a great achievement of Chinese Christians for the glory of the Lord. I wish that the Foundation will continuously serve Chinese people in fringe of the society and bring God’s love to people in need.

May God of life bless the Amity Foundation for ever more!

With best wishes,

Rev. Dr. Hong Jung Lee
General Secretary

Dear Sir,

It is a great honour and a joy to be able to offer congratulations on behalf of the Scottish Churches' China Group (SCCG) to the Amity Foundation on the occasion of the 30th anniversary of Amity's founding.

The SCCG has been privileged to work with Amity on many different projects. Over the past thirty years we have supported Amity in building up China and her people.

From the Amity Foundation's earliest days as a small but visionary initiative through the years when Amity has grown in size and effectiveness, we have been greatly encouraged as Amity has begun more programmes in China and in other countries, particularly in disaster relief.

SCCG applaud Amity for the Foundation's work among the poorest and most vulnerable in Chinese society, recognising the dignity of those people living on the edge of China's society during a time of great economic and social change. From the very beginning Amity has ensured that decisions about the Foundation's work have always been taken in China, for China, by Chinese people.

We give thanks for the work of the Amity Foundation in the Amity Printing Press, the Amity Teacher's Programme, and many other projects with which we have been involved.

For the many wonderful relationships of friendship and cooperation that have been established with Amity staff members, we express our sincerest gratitude and appreciation.

The example set by Amity staff members, many of whom choose to work with the Amity Foundation rather than taking better-paid positions with other organisations or companies, is an example of selfless dedication that has been a constant inspiration to us all.

With the assurance of our prayers for God's continued blessing on all your work,

With all our best wishes

30th Anniversary Greetings to The Amity Foundation

Dear General Secretary Qiu, and participants at the 30th Anniversary Celebrations of The Amity Foundation:

Grace and peace to you in the name of Jesus Christ who came that all may have life and have it abundantly! On behalf of The United Church of Canada, I send warm greetings and prayers on the occasion of this anniversary celebration.

It is a privilege and an honour to congratulate The Amity Foundation in China on this auspicious occasion of its 30th Anniversary. We join you, Amity colleagues, and partners from around the world in celebrating the rich life and history of Amity and in giving thanks to God for Amity’s contributions. The United Church of Canada is honored to join in your celebrations in Nanjing through the presence of United Church of Canada staff Cheryl Curtis and Ruth Noble.

The partnership with The Amity Foundation has enriched The United Church of Canada’s understanding of engagement together in God’s Mission. Amity’s slogan, “to serve society and to benefit people” continues to be an inspiration to many in China and globally. Amity has accomplished much of which you should be proud. We rejoice with you in your achievements.

As you look to the next 30 years and beyond, we offer prayers for the journey ahead, for deepened partnership and mutual accompaniment.

Blessings and peace to you.

Dear Sisters and Brothers in Amity Foundation,

On behalf of the UEM and UEM member churches, I would like to extend our heartfelt congratulations for completing 30 years of your service successfully.

Working with your friendly and capable staff has been a real honour and I value highly our cooperation.

The attention the Amity and UEM give to Pengcheng Special Education - school for mentally challenged people - hopefully will help these children and their parents; but most of all it is our hope that the eyes and hearts of many will be opened to reach out to these children with special need, who cannot help themselves.

Not all country and churchly organization are giving attention to the cerebral palsy children. UEM is thankful that you attract our attention to the possibility to support such children in the Huian Children Rehabilitation Centre.

Amity is quite innovative in the sector of environmental and nature protection. UEM is glad to support you in the training of people as Natural Experience Narrator.

Last but not least the encounter with you, when we visit Nanjing, inspires us to serve hand in hand with you. Reversely, we value the attendance of Ms. She Hongyu in our General Assembly 2012 in Surabaya-Indonesia and Ms. Vivien Zheng Wei in General Assembly 2014 in Wuppertal-Germany.

May God bless your efforts to serve others abundantly; and may our partnership will be a blessing for people in Asia and beyond.

Rev. Sonia Parera-Hummel

Dear Director Qiu,

We wish to add our most sincere congratulations to Amity Foundation on this 30th Anniversary.

We admire the courage of Amity Foundation as you have literally paved the way for faith-based NGOs in the great country of China. Your tenacity, wisdom, graciousness and vision are exemplary for the others who have followed in your path.

It has been a joy for Word4Asia Consulting International to partner with you during recent years and we surely anticipate seeing our partnership expanded as we share a common vision for the most underserved of society.

God’s Word is clear: we express the heart of God when we care for the widows, orphans, needy and the poor. Amity Foundation has clearly shown this commitment.

On the 30th Anniversary we come together with you with great optimism the best years for Amity Foundation are ahead of us. If we in some small way are able to bring encouragement and enhance the atmosphere of thankfulness and celebration by our presence that is our humble honor.

Thank you for including us in this historic occasion.

Sincerely and Warmly,

Dr. Gene Wood

General Secretary, Board, Amity Staff, and Distinguished Guests of the 30th Anniversary of the Amity Foundation

It is with great sadness that I am unable to attend the Amity Foundation 30 Year Celebration in Nanjing. On several occasions it has been my honor and pleasure to visit your headquarters and see Amity’s growth and the tremendous work of the Amity Foundation in China and beyond. Congratulations!

Through a partnership with International Ministries of American Baptist Churches and the work of Rev. Dr. Benjamin Chan, I have learned most about the Amity through nine exceptional staff members who have visited BuildABridge and lived with me as housemates in Philadelphia. These nine Amity staff members have been excellent representatives of Amity specifically and of China generally. Their professionalism, volunteerism, and commitment to see a better and just world as they visited and communicated the work of Amity at universities, non-profit organizations, government offices and community organizations speaks most highly of the outstanding character and work of the Amity Foundation. Congratulations!

Sincerely,

Dr. I. Nathan Corbit, President

Footprints

Over the last three decades, the footprints of the Amity Foundation have reached 34 provinces in China. Amity programs have benefited millions of people in need of help, while enabling social development and equality for underdeveloped areas.

During 1995–2004, Amity shifted its work focus from east China to western provinces, with expanded project spectrum covering medical and healthcare, social welfare, poverty reduction, integrated rural development, environmental protection, women’s development, and cultural preservation.

During 2005–2014, Amity launched community service programs in urban areas while continuing its integrated development efforts in rural areas.

In 2015, Amity made a strategic shift of its work focus from introducing foreign funds into China to going global to provide services. The milestone of Amity’s internationalization include biogas projects in Madagascar, food aids to north Korea, earthquake relief in Nepal, and the latest establishment of the Amity Africa Office in Ethiopia.
For 30 years from 1985 until 2015, the Amity Foundation has left its footprints all over the country. Now Amity is going global to enact the biblical tenet “More Blessed to Give than to Receive”.
Integrated Development of Rural Communities

Community Development and Environmental Protection

The program of community development and environmental protection promotes the principle of participatory community development, meets basic needs of vulnerable groups in rural areas, facilitates community resource management, and enables community capacity building. The disadvantaged groups are encouraged and assisted to actively participate in community development, decision making and management, so that environmental protection and social development are coordinated and promoted.

Public Health and HIV/AIDS Prevention

The public health and HIV/AIDS prevention program aims to improve the public health service capacity in poor areas. Establishing a system for disease control and prevention, the program facilitates improvement of basic medical and public health conditions in poverty-stricken areas and enables local people access to basic health care services. With the program, HIV/AIDS prevention publicity and sufferer relief are available to people in need.

Amity promotes the construction of a primary health care service networks. Through the support and the training of professional health-care workers, Amity provides safe, effective, and convenient health services for local residents. By increasing public education, Amity also focuses on raising awareness and improves the self-treatment abilities of communities. The prevention of diseases, the self-reliance and the empowerment of the people and their communities are main focuses of Amity's engagement in this field. By following a community-based and participatory approach, public health and AIDS/HIV prevention projects have a holistic and integrated focus. Underprivileged people as the floating population, elderly, women, ethnic minorities, children and high-risk populations are especially considered.
Disaster Management

Amity’s disaster management was initiated in 1987 when Amity launched the first disaster relief and post-disaster reconstruction project for the fire at Greater Higgnan Mountains in Heilongjiang Province. The program aims to provide emergency assistance to the disaster-affected people and help them rebuild their homes. It also assists local people in the project area to develop more effective measures of reducing disaster caused losses.
Amity launched the Return to Classroom and Growing-up project for children affected by the Wenchuan Earthquake.

Social welfare

With the goal of helping and empowering the disadvantaged, Amity's social welfare programs provide whole person care services to orphans, as well as children and young adults with disabilities, facilitate development of childcare, medical rehabilitation and special education, and enable them access to high-quality living, equal participation, and holistic development.

Initiated in 1989, the programs have always adhered to the "help - development" concept of service; providing recipients with rehabilitation, education and holistic care through a full range of services, with a respectful attitude and a participatory management model. In the provision of services, we have focused on the integration of social care providers and resources. Working with professional national institutions, we aim to introduce advanced international concepts of childcare, special education and methods of caring for the physically challenged.
Education and International Exchange

With the program of Education and International Exchange, including the long-term Amity Teachers Project (ATP), the Summer English Project (SEP) for teacher training, the Service Learning Project (SLP) and other international exchange projects, best practices and new ideas are introduced to facilitate equitable education and social progress. International exchanges among young people and between cultures are facilitated. Exchanges and cooperation with developing countries in environmental protection, disaster relief, and poverty alleviation have led to friendship and partnership with the developing countries.

Church and Social Services

As a faith-based organization, the Amity Foundation takes practicing the Christian belief in Love as its mission. It encourages and motivates Chinese Christians to participate in social services, supports the development of church-run social service ministry, and promotes the improvement of churches’ ability of social services. Amity’s efforts in social services enable society a better understanding of Christianity while Christianity is better positioned to make contributions to the harmonious development of society. Amity promotes the unity of the Church and facilitates inter-faith dialogs, exchanges and cooperation. The consistent spirit of Christianity is social service. Love needs to be witnessed and demonstrated in action. Since its establishment, Amity has teamed up with churches in China and overseas to serve as a bridge for the Christian Church and society. The purpose is to promote Christian participation in social issues and to enable society to have a better understanding of the Christian community. Amity wants to promote further unity among religions and churches through inter-faith dialogs, exchanges, cooperation and mutual help, not only in China but worldwide.

Support to Start-up NGOs

Launched and managed by the Amity Foundation, Nanjing Amity NGO Development Center was established in October 2009. As a supporting organization within the philanthropy sector, the Center makes great efforts in NGO development, capacity building, training, NGO exchange platform building, and community service promotion. It also explores in the ways of facilitating development of NGOs and boosting growth of civil society. Amity has established two more NGO Development Centers in two cities other than Nanjing, namely Nantong and Kunshan in Jiangsu Province.
Care for Children with Autism

The Amity Children's Center was established in 2008. At first, it served only children with autism. Now it has transformed into an integrated center of rehabilitation resources, combining institutional rehabilitation with community service. The target groups of service have gradually extended. Other children in need of help who are treated are those with sense organ imbalance, cerebral palsy or hypoevolutism. Amity Development Centre for Children became a support institution for children with autism aged below seven and aims for early intervention and rehabilitation. The children's center employees go into communities to do advocacy work, telling people about autism and helping parents to identify the symptoms earlier.

Serve Young Adults with Learning Difficulties

The Amity Home of Blessings was the first of its kind in Nanjing to serve people with learning difficulties. As a non-profit organization, it was established in 2002 to serve the mentally retarded or those with minor psychoses aged between 16 and 40. It serves directly dozens of clients in the institution in addition to others and their families outside. The service it offers encompasses educational rehabilitation, board and lodging, recreation, vocational training and occupational therapy and hygienic instructions. The purpose of all these programs focuses on upgrading the social adaptation abilities of the clients. In addition, it provides consultations to their parents and delivers door-to-door service to those families in need. Meanwhile, it also serves as a base for internships of social workers-to-be, and plays the role of tutoring and supervising the volunteers in their professional training.
Community-based Eldercare

In 2010, Amity established a community-based eldercare center in Nanjing, which unveiled the amity’s exploration on providing services to the elderly. Integrating institutional service with community-based home care, Amity’s eldercare is rooted in the communities to meet the needs of the elderly. Community-based eldercare centers provide long-term, short-term and daily care for the elderly living in the communities. Amity runs different types of eldercare centers and nursing homes.

In 2012, the Amity Foundation signed a management agreement with Qixia District Civil Affairs Bureau of Nanjing on managing a nursing home in Qixia District, Nanjing. Based on the nursing home, Amity International Philanthropy Valley was built to serve as service-providing complex covering eldercare, training, research, NGO development, social entrepreneurship development, and volunteering.

Amity's nursing homes tailor their provision of services to the residents' need. Routine care is integrated with volunteers' service and social work. Amity stages various trainings, events and conferences for the homes every year. Powered by ethics, professionalism and expertise, Amity is functioning as a role model for the provision of services for the elderly in China.

Bible Printing

In 1986, the ground-breaking ceremony for constructing the Amity Printing co-founded by the Amity Foundation and the United Bible Societies was held in Dongshan Town, Jiangning District, Nanjing. In 1987, Amity's first copy of the Bible was rolled off product line.

After decades of continuous efforts, Amity Printing Co., Ltd. has become a modern thin paper press. It's the main base of Bible printing in China and the world's largest single press of the Bible. The Company has printed more than 140 million copies of the Bible.

In 2014, Amity Printing Co., Ltd. was awarded the prestigious “Benny Award” in the Premier Print Awards category in Chicago. The Company has also won awards in China such as the Green Enterprise, the 3rd China Press and Publication Awards and the 4th China Print Gold Awards. With an annual capacity for producing over 20 million hardbound books, the Company is well-equipped for meeting the demands of Christians worldwide.

The Company actively participates in various philanthropy events and activities organized by the Amity Foundation.

Interconnection

Amity thrives in a world where connection and interaction of different sectors and cultures prevail.
Philanthropy enables happiness while understanding leads to loyalty

The first monthly donation program “e10000 Action” was co-launched by Amity and Tencent in 2009 when I had just learned how to link my bank card to my QQ account. Considering the innovativeness of the online donation approach, my first attempt of online payment was monthly donation of RMB 10 for Amity’s program “e10000 Action”.

I had never cared about the actual use of my donation before one day in 2012 when a message popped up on my QQ account. I was invited to join the project visits. Such an ignorable message lit my aspiration of visiting the orphans supported by my donation.

The charming thing is the fact that doing philanthropy is enjoyable
During the project visits, the orphans surprised me with the joy in their bright eyes. Though suffering poverty, they smiled and laughed when being with us. What they needed the most were care and companionship rather than financial support. A new game or a small gift was good enough to make them forget all miseries. Their excitement inspired all visitors. The project visits enabled me to realize that there is no insuperable gap between donors and recipients. The most important thing is the fact that both sides can enjoy happiness and satisfaction from philanthropy projects.

Thereafter, Amity’s volunteer carnivals, Amity Bakery’s publicity events, and Hiking for Charity continued to add happiness into my life.

Philanthropy is a lifestyle
Like most of the ordinary people, I often work overtime. I have to pay mortgage and my child's education. However, I choose to make doing philanthropy an important component of my life.

If you have the habit of running, you may feel uncomfortable when you have not sweated for two or three days. If you have the habit of drinking coffee, you may feel very depressed when you don’t drink a cup of coffee every morning. If you have the habit of offering a bus seat to people in need of help, you will take the initiative to make sure if there is any senior citizen or child in the bus. Philanthropy can become a habit because it has become the most familiar part of life.

Understanding leads to loyalty
Ordinary people have limited time, effort and financial resources in doing philanthropy. When meeting a professional and reliable philanthropy organization, one would take it as a friend or a lover. Loyalty appears naturally after understanding. When my relatives plan to donate for orphans, I will contact the Amity Foundation for help. When activities are planed for the community where I live, I will naturally think of designing an activity for Amity. I’m a big fan of the Amity Foundation.
The reason why I have confidence in recommending Amity to my friends is that I believe in the transparency and professionalism of Amity. Everyone likes a transparent organization. But few people know the fact that being transparent will increase the administrative costs, especially for a large organization like Amity. The Amity Foundation has been working hard for three decades on education, social welfare, health care, community development, environmental protection, and disaster management. For such a large organization, to achieve information transparency is really a complex job. Even so, the Amity Foundation is always on the top of the transparency ranking list. Both full-time staff and many volunteers have made great contributions to Amity’s transparency.

Philanthropy is one of the best classrooms

I have a more long-term goal now. My goal is to build the children’s loyalty to Amity and philanthropy. Before my visit to Amity projects in Guizhou Province, I asked my child’s classmates to write postcards to their peers living in distant rural areas. Many children not only elaborately decorated their postcards but also prepared small gifts. Their naive understanding and expression of philanthropy deeply touched me. We should try our best to keep inspiring their compassion and commitment of love. Philanthropy is one of the best classrooms.

Therefore, I believe that the loyalty to philanthropy and the idea of being a good parent will keep me doing philanthropy happily for ever.

Amity activities warm my heart

I met the Amity Foundation at the first Amity Volunteer Carnival in 2008. The experience left me an enjoyable impression.

Thereafter, whenever there is an Amity activity, I will take time to join the activity as a volunteer. The power of each individual of us may be as trivial as a single musical note. However, a number of notes can form a melody of love when they are put together. When the activity reached a successful conclusion, I would have pleasant conversations with Amity staff. I am very touched by their trust and care. Over the years, I have witnessed the kindness and sincerity of Amity staff, the thoughtful arrangement of activities, and the transparency of donation statistics. When the lack of trust prevails today, a philanthropy organization like Amity warms my heart and brings peace of mind to me.

My 13 years old daughter has begun to participate in doing philanthropy. I believe that it’s good for her to grow up. Volunteering with Amity, my child will enjoy the happiness of giving. Philanthropy enables the spreading of love. A glorious cause of humane care, philanthropy helps people and enables self-help. It facilitates respect and dignity. Let’s keep spreading love and put Amity’s vision and mission into action.

Chen Jingbo
Guided by love

My story with Amity starts from 2006. As a Christian, I know the beauty of the God’s love. I’m more than glad to help the people in need whom I never met or will never meet. Amity’s vision and mission inspired and drove me to follow the guidance of love.

In September 2007, I joined Amity’s project visit tour to Butuo, Sichuan province. After seeing how the projects were implemented by Amity, I got a further understanding of Amity’s philanthropy principles. Later I was invited to visit the headquarters office of the Amity Foundation where I made many friends. I was deeply touched by Amity’s long history and organization culture.

During the last decade, I enjoyed trust and respect from Amity. I was touched and impressed by the great work Amity had been doing. During a visit to Amity projects in western provinces, an Amity staffer working on disaster relief told me his experience of relieving the Whenchuan earthquake. He was on his way back to Nanjing from a project site when the magnitude 8.0 earthquake hit Wenchuan. With no hesitation, he changed his route and joined Amity’s rescue team immediately. He kept doing relief work for over one month. He suffered the lack of food and drinking water. He slept in a tent at night. He even missed the chance of seeing his newborn son. His commitment to relief work inspired me to join Amity’s efforts.

When I shared my knowledge of Amity and its projects with my friends, they all decided to join me to help people in need through a reliable organization like Amity.

I think I am lucky, because I have many friends sharing the same vision. We believe in love and hope. We believe that great things may be done by mass effort. Witnessing the implementation of the projects supported by us, we became more confident in our involvement in Amity’s work.
His Four-Year Appointment with Madagascar

In 1990s, Amity began to promote three-in-one biogas digesters in west China. In 2011, Amity initiated cooperation with its partners in Madagascar on building biogas digesters. Amity invited Malagasy personnel to visit Amity’s biogas projects in Hunan and arranged training workshops on biogas technology and management for them. Amity also sent biogas experts to Madagascar to provide on-site support. Mr. Chen Jiahai was one of the experts.

During the last four years, Chen Jiahai went to Madagascar many times. In Madagascar, he made field trips for investigation, instructed the making of molding blocks, shared Amity’s best practices and assessed the implementation of the projects.

Chen Jiahai said, the four-year experience was unforgettable to him. He helped local people with his knowledge and expertise. “When I told Malagasy technicians that it took about 12 minutes to cook a meal with using biogas, they didn’t believe me. Later I noticed that it took local people in Madagascar about 2 hours to cook a meal. I checked their biogas digesters and found the cause. The digesters were not well designed. There was no sufficient air pressure in the digesters. Then I told them my finds and helped them to redesign the digesters.” Said Chen Jiahai.

With the efforts of Amity experts like Chen Jiahai, Amity’s environment-friendly approach on saving energy and using biogas has been promoted at home and abroad.
The abundant life of Ma Ke

On September 9, 2013, Amity’s Grace Forever Care Fund was established in Nanjing. The fund aims to help philanthropy workers who suffer critical illness, accidental injury, or other special difficulties. It is the first dedicated fund for helping philanthropy workers in China. Ma Ke is the first person covered by the fund.

The case of Ma Ke is not uncommon in the philanthropy sector. Some philanthropy workers may fall down in the office due to long-term fatigue. Some may encounter a car accident while traveling in remote rural areas. Some may encounter danger when doing earthquake relief. They keep busy in helping others. But when they are in trouble, they often suffer helplessness.

According Qiu Zhonghui, Vice Chairman and General Secretary of the Amity Foundation, Amity project staffers encountered a car accident on the way for investigation ten years ago. The accident resulted in one paralytic and several wounded. Amity and its international partner made proper arrangement for the injured later. However, as Mr. Qiu Zhonghui remarked, the arrangement for the single case did not represent a long-term effective solution to other cases. A permanent mechanics is needed to support those philanthropy workers in need of help.

Working with partners both in the business and philanthropy sectors, Amity began to plan a dedicated fund in 2012. The Grace Forever Care Fund appears like spring rain nourishing the hearts of many philanthropy workers. For them, it is not only a solution to the problem. It brings hope and spiritual support.

Enjoying health recovery, Ma Ke has returned to the philanthropy sector. One year after recovery, Ma Ke has traveled 14,439 kilometers to 54 cities. He helped 30 seriously ill and paraplegic patients. He visited 300 elderly people living in 7 remote leprosy villages in Guangxi, Guangdong, and Hubei provinces. He visited 6 orphanages and special education institutions. He was listed among top 10 exemplary citizens in Guangxi Province. He enjoys the happiness of rebirth and decides to spread love forever.
Huihui, a happy girl with a positive attitude

Huihui is a small girl suffering Down’s syndrome. She works as a baker at Amity Bakery.

When she was one year old, her parents noticed that she was "somewhat different" with her peers. She moved slowly and could not make clear speech. Her parents took her to major hospitals in Nanjing and the result was heartbreaking. Huihui was diagnosed with Down syndrome. Huihui’s grandmother thought Huihui could be bullied in school and refused to send Huihui to school. Huihui’s mother did not agree with the grandmother. She said, "I don’t want to isolate Huihui from the outside world. She must go out."

As a doctor of traditional Chinese medicine, Huihui’s mother has some knowledge of rehabilitation of children with learning difficulties. She encouraged Huihui to play with children of her colleagues. Gradually, Huihui became confident in stepping out of her room. She went to special education schools. At Amity Home of Blessings, Huihui learned doing manual work, cooking, shopping, and even became a star student.

In 2010, 26-year-old Huihui was placed in Amity Bakery to take vocational training on baking. Amity Bakery is a specialized workplace providing vocational training and sheltered employment for people with intellectual disabilities. Huihui loved baking very much. Though used to sleep late, Huihui go to work on time every day, no matter rain or shine. "The most enjoyable thing is making cookies while wearing beautiful clothes," Huihui said. Now Huihui is well-known for making good cookies. When comes to cookies, proud Huihui will smile, "I can make beautiful and delicious cookies."

According to Huihui’s mother, Huihui has made great improvement in her interpersonal ability. She is even able to use a computer to download songs now. To celebrate her mother’s birthday, Huihui bought her mother a coat with her own salary. Wearing the coat, her mother was excited with joy.

Hope leads to changes. A positive attitude enables happiness for those suffering frustration and difficulties.
Amity’s guide and support facilitated us to serve more people with disabilities

On September 16th, 2011, Jiuzhou Cultural Center for People with Disabilities was founded in Nanjing under the instruction of a local federation of people with disabilities. It’s a non-profit organization and the first of its like in providing cultural and entertainment service to the people with disabilities. Its founder Zhu Guangjun was recognized as the pioneer in the sector.

Three years ago, Zhu Guangjun was one of the applicants to be assessed by Amity NGO Development Center. He won Amity’s recognition with his dedication and passion.

“Amity helped us a lot. They built information channels and services platforms for us. For the start-up of grassroots organizations, they designed development plans and arranged capacity building workshops. When we encountered difficulties, Amity would provide us professional advice.” Zhu Guangjun said.

The establishment of Jiuzhou Painting and Calligraphy Academy was the direct result of support from Amity NGO Development. Zhu Guangjun remarked, “Without Amity’s support in terms of best practice and fund, we would never achieve such success. I hope to help more people with disabilities in becoming more confident in their future lives. We need Amity’s support and guidance.”

The tenacity of life

At Amity, I have never stopped my steps. I went to many places where our projects were implemented met many people among whom children with disabilities made a great percentage.

I still remember the scene I first saw abandoned babies with disabilities. They were crying or sleeping just as normal babies. It seemed that their hands waving were trying to catch something. It could be hope to life or desire of love. They were as feeble as tiny grass overwhelmed by strong wind. I was impressed and realized the significance of my joining Amity.

In the years later, I traveled to different places to help people in need. I tried to overcome my fear of contacting leprosy patients isolated for many years. I hugged children in need of help. I comforted the dying.

Amity’s social welfare programs render humanistic care. With innovative and down-to-earth projects, we care vulnerable individuals. We advocate that children with disabilities need acceptance and help of the public. Each of them needs a worm family. Only with family-like support and care, they can grow up healthy and happily. We advocate that children with disabilities should enjoy equal education. We should empower them with respect and acceptance.
Revival of Wo Yun Village

Recalling the disaster seven years ago, Wang Yajun’s heart was still fluttering with fear. When the earthquake hit Wenchuan, he was only 14 years old. The sudden upheaval, house collapse, the sorrow and fear made everyone desperate. So was Wang Yajun’s family. Fortunately, they kept their lives. With people alive, there is hope.

The arrival of Amity rescue team made this hope possible. Right after the earthquake happened that day, Amity dispatched its staff to the quake-hit areas. In July, Amity launched post-disaster reconstruction.

Through demand survey, Amity developed plans for resuming schools for children, food storage, rehabilitation, community reconstruction and development. Implementation of the plans led to revival of Wo Yun Village. Amity helped the villagers to build a post-disaster reconstruction committee with at least one woman member. Amity encouraged villagers to be involved planning, decision-making and management. Amity supported villagers to make mutual help groups to facilitate the construction of new houses. Compared to the house reconstruction, spiritual reconstruction was also an important part of Amity’s work. Amity arranged events for the villages. Mid-autumn festival gala, choral competition, family games competition, and Spring Festival couplets contest enabled smiles on villagers’ faces. Wang Yajun was among those who enjoyed the events. He was also a regular visitor to Amity’s reconstruction office. He mentioned that he met one of his best friends there - Gong Sheng, Amity’s relief worker at that time. Under Gong Sheng’s care and guidance, Yajun recovered soon from the sufferings. “Amity’s workers opened another door for us and made us forget all the pain brought by the earthquake. They brought joy and happiness.”

Yajun is now a proud PLA soldier. He is ready to make contributions to society and help people in need. He wishes follow Amity to spread love.

Wang Yajun
The 15-year aid is more than money

I met the Amity Foundation for the first time in early 2001 when I worked with an aid project for Wa people in Cangyuan County. As I knew more about Amity and its projects, I began to recognize Amity’s vision and principles on social development. Amity staffers impressed me with their compassion, commitment and competence. I remember a field trip to Cangyuan made by Mr. Qiu Zhonghui during a rainy season. The bad weather and muddy mountain road did not stop Mr. Qiu visiting the mountain villages. He chatted with villagers and listened very carefully to their voices to find their real needs. The attitude of equality and respect impressed me.

As of June 2015, Amity projects in Cangyuan had covered irrigation canals, drinking water, village clinics, industrial development, road construction, new energy promotion, garbage tank, association building, capacity building, preservation and development of minority cultural heritage, and reconstruction of clasping schools in rural areas, with a total fund of over RMB 50 million. For a state-level poverty-stricken county, the Amity Foundation's assistance has been very timely.

Through cooperation with Amity, I gradually became familiar with some core principles of project management. When implementing the projects of micro-credit, return to school, drinking water and integrated rural development, Amity maximized participation of all stakeholders to the whole process covering research, planning and management. The principle of participatory development helped me a lot not only in implementing Amity projects but also in doing my own job.

My career growth has been closely linked to Amity projects. Though Amity’s project personnel kept changing in last 15 years, the friendship forged in the process of cooperation remains unchanged. I enjoyed pleasant communication with Amity staffers. They never considered themselves as givers of aid. They respected us and shared their ideas with us. They worked with us to find solutions through negotiation and consultation. They helped us to become confident in our own wisdom and potential.

I was once asked, "You have your own job. Why do you work so hard on Amity projects?" Frankly speaking, I am very happy when I work with Amity to do something good for the people. The happiness is more important than money.

Wang Weiquan
Church-run social service ministry has a bright future

After graduation, I had been working on educational administration in Nanjing Union Theological Seminary where I had chance to join Amity’s charity efforts. Recognizing the significance of Amity’s work, I admired the great vision and foresight of Bishop Ting and other founders of the Amity Foundation.

In 1997, I went back to Shaanxi where I was born and grew up. I still remember the wishes and expectations Dr. Han Wenzao expressed to me when he was informed of my decision of going back to Shaanxi for work. He told me that Amity had made a strategic shift of it work focus according to actual demands. Amity would focus its work on western provinces. He asked me to serve as a coordinator of Amity projects in western provinces, especially in Shaanxi Province. I gladly accepted his offer.

Thereafter, Amity implemented a lot of philanthropy projects in Shaanxi Province. In Yulin and Lantian, Amity helped thousands of children to return to school. In Qishan, Ankang and Shangluo, Amity facilitated the reconstruction of clasping schools. In Yan’an where the lack of water prevailed, Amity implemented drinking water projects. In 2003, Amity timely delivered rice, blankets, tarps and other relief supplies to flood victims in Ankang. Leaving their footprints in many counties and cities in Shaanxi Province, Amity staffers have sowed the seeds of love into the hearts of local people.

Amity’s project principles have been well accepted in project areas. Particularly, I applaud the principle of Three Shares. Three project stakeholders, i.e., Amity, local governments and beneficiaries, share the costs of the projects. Participation of all stakeholders leads to sustainable development.

In these years, Amity has been advocating and promoting churches’ participation in social service projects. Backed by Amity’s best practices and the government’s policy support, I believe that church-run social service ministry has a bright future in China. I hope Amity will work more closely with churches on social service. Amity’s help in advocacy, capacity building and technical training will facilitate churches to make more contributions to social development.
Growing Ties that Bind: International Exchange and Partnership

Partnership in mission—a new beginning

Amity’s uniqueness is not just in being one of the first NGOs in China but having overseas partners from the very start. When China reopened its doors in 1978, there was a call for “A New Beginning” in mission with the Chinese church by organizations related to the ecumenical movement in Europe and the USA.

For overseas church organizations, working with Amity in the Chinese context was an experiment in practicing a new understanding of Christian mission. There was a very conscious attempt to get rid of the old, colonial model of mission that had alienated many Chinese in the past and to introduce a new way of doing things that was mutually respectful and empowering. The “ecumenical sharing of resources” was undergirded by an understanding that while funding and personnel will be contributed by overseas organizations, there must be respect for the Three Self Principles of the Chinese church and for Amity as a Chinese-run organization with Chinese leaders. Reminiscing about the Chinese-European dialogue that accompanied the founding of Amity, Gerhard Kobelin has noted that it aimed at developing “a relationship of partners, a reciprocity of giving and receiving, involving equality, mutuality and trust.”* These principles have been part of Amity’s strengths from the very beginning.

Peace Building

Mutual respect and trust grows out of mutual understanding and more than any other, it has been the Amity Teachers Program that probably has contributed most to this process in the last 30 years. For many Christians wishing to serve in China, teaching English afforded an opportunity for intensive exposure to life in China, especially in some of the more remote areas of the country. The Teachers Program has been a great vehicle for inter-cultural exchange and learning and what I see as planting the building blocks for peace. It has been a locus of “ecumenism in practice” where Christians from different parts of the world put aside cultural and denominational differences to live and work together in China. Of the more than 1,000 Amity teachers who have served in China over the last 30 years, not a few have lived through the rapid and extraordinary changes that have swept the country in the last two decades. Like their Chinese students, they have seen both the positive and negative aspects of this experience and developed a much deeper understanding of the country and its people. Even short-term volunteer programs such as Summer English Teaching have created opportunities for bonding and mutual learning between overseas volunteers and local Chinese teachers and students.

Global dimensions and strategic partnership

With China’s economic rise and Amity’s growth, North-South exchange will evolve into something more among equals. Funding and expertise from overseas contributed immensely to the quality and development of Amity’s work but there was also an imbalance in the power relationship. While there was a desire to get rid of the donor-donee relationship between Amity and its overseas partners, the reality of economic disparity was always an obstacle to be overcome. In the last ten years, however, foreign funding and development aid for China has shrunk considerably. Amity’s increasing ability to raise funds domestically attests to its great adaptability and innovativeness in confronting new challenges. This has led to a smooth transition towards greater financial self-reliance. However, while the amount of foreign funds for Amity has declined, the partnership with churches and NGOs overseas will continue to be vital in view of the global implications of development work in China. In this respect, Amity’s participation in the global network of the ACT Alliance and in UN related organizations will be another momentous step towards its internationalization.

Apart from North-South exchanges, there are now plans for Amity to expand its ties with other developing countries. In the 1990s, the PDRC (Philippine-China Development Resource Center) initiated South-South exchange between Amity and NGOs in the Philippines around the themes of sustainable development, women’s equality, health, education and church-run social service. For the Chinese, these exchanges provided not only exposure to another developing Asian country, where Christians are a majority, but also showed the pivotal social and political role NGOs can play. Chinese participants in the exchange were constantly amazed at the leadership and participation of women and youth in Filipino NGOs.

In the process of learning from the Philippines, Amity participants discovered they had a lot to share with other NGOs around the world. In the exchanges with the Philippines, biogas and acupuncture were major contributions on the Chinese side. Filipino doctors and nurses were sent to study acupuncture at the Nanjing University of Traditional Chinese Medicine and practiced their newly acquired skills to expanding urban centers can have global implications. Having overseas partners provides Amity opportunities to engage more deeply in dialogue and cooperation on issues of common concerns. Future North-South relationships will focus less on funding and more on developing partnerships based on common concerns and shared vision. As suggested by Katrin Fiedler, a former Amity staff, “Amity and its overseas partner organizations need to forge a strategic development partnership that can serve as a model for cooperation between China and the West.”
the benefit of poor rural communities in remote corners of the Philippines. In Cebu, Filipino engineers sent to the Chengdu-based International Center on Biogas, learnt to adapt Chinese biogas digesters to Philippine conditions and have, since then, been promoting the use of this form of renewable energy in southern Philippines. In recent years, Amity has begun to expand this kind of sharing with churches and NGOs in Africa and the Pacific.

People to people exchanges

Hong Kong is part of China and therefore exchanges involving Chinese from the mainland and China may not be classified under international exchange. Nevertheless, Hong Kong has historically functioned as a bridge between mainland China and the rest of the world. Amity’s Hong Kong Office (earlier known as the Overseas Liaison Office) facilitated the international exchanges of Amity through its publicity work, support for the Amity Teachers Program and the annual Amity tours for international participants. A team of international staff based in Hong Kong helped Amity reach out to Europe, the USA and parts of Asia.

In the last decade, Amity has intensified its outreach to Hong Kong youth, providing more opportunities for them to become involved in social development programs in China through exposure trips and service learning. These have provided channels for better people-to-people relations and a stronger sense of Hong Kong being part of China, changing earlier attitudes of mutual distrust and misunderstanding.

Today, travel to China has become quite commonplace and there is no longer reference to the “Bamboo curtain” that purportedly separated China from the rest of the world. Nevertheless, the persistence of stereotypes, fears of rising Chinese military and economic power and negative media coverage continue to incubate misapprehensions and mistrust of China and the Chinese. Additionally, Chinese investments in other countries have not always been welcomed or well received by local populations. As a rising global and regional power, China has to work harder at persuading countries and people around the world of its commitment to lasting peace and prosperity for all. Developing mutual trust and understanding, changing attitudes, promoting cooperation based on mutual respect, sharing of best practices and working together for a better world – these have been some of the less visible, less tangible, but vital aspects of Amity’s contributions. As one of the country’s leading Christian-initiated social organizations and an incubator of Chinese NGOs, Amity plays a strategic role in the growth of Chinese civil society. In the next decade, Amity’s international links will be a crucial bridge in building the bonds of goodwill and solidarity between China and the rest of the world.
Amity spread love not only through down-to-earth action but also with farsighted advocacy efforts.
Aiming to inspire the public’s participation in philanthropy and facilitate the healthy growth of the philanthropy sector, Amity’s advocacy efforts include seminars, volunteer mobilization, publicity campaigns, salons, experience opportunities, and media exposure.

A Special Social Development Zone

The Amity Foundation, one of the earliest Chinese NGOs established following China’s Reform and Opening-up to the Outside World, embarked on a journey 30 years ago in 1985.

General Secretary Qiu Zhonghui remarked in 2010 that Amity had played the role of a special social development zone, similar to that played by Special Economic Zones in China’s economic development.

Amity, a young seedling sprouting at the early stage of China’s Reform and Opening-up

In the last 30 years, the emancipation of minds and endorsement of Reform and Opening-up has given enormous impetus to economic development in China, and provided conditions for the development of social undertakings. On this historical canvas, Amity emerged in response to the times. The birth and growth of the Amity Foundation, like a beam of spring sunlight, symbolized the entering of a nongovernmental force into the social domain, and indicated the emergence of a new dimension in Reform and Opening-up, stretching from economic to social fields. Amity brought together people from all walks of life who worked together for the betterment of society on the premise of mutual respect in faith, pushing forward the progress of a more pluralistic society.

Amity, a channel for social development resources of all kinds

Social projects require the backing of all kinds of resources. Similar to the introduction of foreign capital in economic development, Amity in the social field boldly channels overseas funding to support China’s social projects. Amity’s practice of opening up to the outside world and starting international non-governmental cooperation was the first in China. To date, Amity has raised a total of RMB 1.5 billion in project funds and donations, which have been used to sponsor projects such as community development and environmental protection, public health and HIV/AIDS prevention, disaster mitigation, orphan fostering and education, social welfare, church and social service, education and international exchange, NGO capacity building, benefiting tens of millions of people in need. Many Amity project areas have therefore become experimental bases for local social and economic development.

Amity, a platform for learning and practice in social development

At the beginning of Reform and Opening up, social development work had to start from scratch. The gradual growth in partnership with more than 200 overseas churches and social organizations has given Amity an international dimension ever since its inception. While learning social development values from international organizations, Amity has created a whole set of systems and methodologies to ensure effective project management as well as organizational accountability and transparency. With the implementation of poverty-reduction and development work in central and western China, Amity cultivated its own development concepts and ideas including the model of Three Participations (the participation of beneficiaries, experts and local governments), put forward the principle of Three Shares (three project stakeholders, i.e., Amity, local governments and beneficiaries share the costs of the projects), and project objectives that emphasize Three Benefits (economic, social and ecological benefits). On the premise of helping disadvantaged groups enhance their capacity, Amity specially highlighted the value of human-oriented development.

Amity, a bridge for the church to engage in social service

“Not to be served but to serve” reflects the social responsibilities Christians ought to have and the consistent spirit of service. Love needs to be witnessed and demonstrated in action. Since its birth, Amity has always attached importance to the partnership with grassroots churches and has continuously expanded church-run social service projects, offering grassroots churches opportunities for participating in social service, helping them shoulder more social responsibilities and to be better integrated with society. Just as Bishop Ting has said, “Amity has helped more and more Chinese Christians to see the beauty of Christians identifying themselves with those in need of service of many kinds.”

Amity, a window for non-governmental exchange between China and the outside world

Amity’s work has earned the understanding and participation of many overseas churches and friends. Ever since the first group of Amity teachers came to China in 1985, Amity’s Education and International Exchange Program has received more than 3,000 long-term and short-term language teachers from various countries. Furthermore, Amity has received over tens of thousands of overseas friends seeking cooperation or for visits. These dynamic non-governmental exchanges have helped Amity broaden its international horizon, and improved communication and understanding among different countries, nations and cultures. Many Amity partners and friends have become Amity’s ambassadors, playing a special role in publicizing Amity’s social development work and introducing China’s economic and social development in a holistic and objective way.
Amity’s philanthropy principles of transparency, wisdom and virtue

In 2012, Amity announced the san ming principles of transparency (ming xing), wisdom (ming hui) and virtue (ming dao).

Transparency (ming xing) refers to the initiative publication of rules, process, inputs and outcomes of philanthropy projects to the general public for the sake of participation and monitoring based on information transparency.

Amity advocates that philanthropy organizations should further improve their project management and financial management systems, conscientiously fulfill their responsibility of serving as trustees and stewards, and frankly disclose the use and result of each donation.

Wisdom (ming hui) refers to the maximization of outcomes of philanthropy projects through scientific, professional, efficient and innovative operation and management.

Amity advocates that philanthropy organizations should be committed to their mission and vision, build their capacity, make innovative and practical efforts to became more professional and efficient, and explore their own way of sustainable development.

Virtue (ming dao) refers to the recognition of morality and ethic principles revealed in philanthropy projects rather than direct and visible outcomes.

Amity advocates that philanthropy organizations should decide their values and build their organization cultures to inspire the public’s recognition of ethics and morality.

Amity will continue its social witness in accordance with the san ming principles of transparency (ming xing), wisdom (ming hui) and virtue (ming dao).
When philanthropy becomes a lifestyle

A lifestyle typically reflects an individual's attitudes, way of life, values or world view. In China, more and more people are now following a new lifestyle: doing philanthropy.

Compassion is among the essentials of the human nature. Either a helping hand or a friendly smile may help to enable a harmonious atmosphere for a community.

In the Internet era, everything is possible. The convenience, interconnection and sharing features of the Internet facilitate the development of modern philanthropy. With the internet, understanding and participating in philanthropy is so easy. Philanthropy becomes a part of the lives of ordinary people. It is no longer the exclusive domain of the wealthy dignitaries. A single click can make your compassion implemented and spread. Your feeling will be shared online. Philanthropy is so close to everyone's life.

“A higher sum of donation doesn't mean a higher index of philanthropy”, General Secretar Qiu Zhonghui remarked. In 2014, the average sum of the donations made to the Amity Foundation was only RMB 1.49. In 2008, the Amity Foundation and Tencent jointly launched China’s first online donation program. As of August 2015, over two million Internet users joined the monthly donation program. Their involvement is undoubtedly a great asset of the Amity Foundation. By means of quantity, one donation of RMB one million is indifferent to donations made by one million people when each of them donates RMB 1. But obviously the latter is more valuable. It's everyone's philanthropy. It's the transmission and aggregation of the power of love. Only when philanthropy becomes a lifestyle, the normalization of philanthropy will be realized. The involvement of everyone in society will ensure a healthy development of the philanthropy sector.
Modern philanthropy needs rational participation

Yang Liujin and Ke Lei, two innocent children in need of help, experienced the similar situation successively in 2014 and 2015. Their miseries attracted overflowing donations from the public, but the final result of the use of donations was questioned by public opinion soon. The two incidents changed and even impaired the philanthropy environment where we are today.

When a tragic image is magnified by traditional media repeatedly and undergoes viral expansion through new media channels, the direct result is continued success of stimulating and activating the public's compassion. Compassion is the origin of goodness and deserves advocacy. But blind compassion is unwise. Those who make impulse donations may realize a few days later that the result of the use of the donations should be concerned.

As a public foundation with 30 years of experience in managing philanthropy projects, Amity believes that there is something worthy of further thinking behind the incidents.

First, is it appropriate that an individual makes a bank account public known for fundraising? It is understandable to do such fundraising for helping those suffering extreme difficulties. However, according to relevant regulations, only public foundations registered with the civil affair administration authority are qualified to raise fund from the public. But in practice, public fundraising efforts initiated by individuals and favored by the media have caused excessive focus of philanthropy resources on few individual cases. The philanthropy sector in China is still in its infancy. Precious and very fragile, the public’s compassion should be cared for by professional organizations. The funds raised by individuals or unprofessional organizations may suffer the lack of legal stewardship and professional execution, which is not conducive to the development of the environment of philanthropy.

Secondly, is it necessary to make the funds transparent to the public? The answer is yes. The fundraisers are obligated to provide the public with the details of planned and actual use of each sum of donations, as well as supporting documentations. Within the duration of the fundraising activities, the information of income and spending should be released promptly to the public. Such practice will not only represent respect to the donors’ compassion but also guard the fundraisers’ dignity.

Thirdly, is it fair to excessively focus donations on a particular case? The answer is no. There are countless people in need of help. To help them efficiently, the involvement of professional philanthropy organizations is particularly important. Before implementing an aid project, a professional organization will conduct a preliminary assessment of the project to estimate the target amount of aid and then raise money through specialized platforms and channels. Without such standardized operation, the blowout of donations may lead to over-concentration of scarce resources on an individual case. It is unfair to other people in urgent need of help.

In May 2014, the Amity Foundation launched a crowd-funding program aiming to provide case-specific aid and facilitate the realization of philanthropy dreams. After investigating and assessing the applications, Amity decides a reasonable fundraising goal based on actual demands and then initiates a crowd-funding project on online fundraising portals including Tencent and Ant Finance. During the project phases of fundraising and implementation, Amity monitors the use of donations and discloses relevant information timely. After the end of the project, a final report is available to the public. To build a healthy and orderly environment of philanthropy, Amity tries it best to avoid any possible error that may "accidentally injure" the public’s compassion.
Philanthropy by everyone

As a major publicity-driven fundraising event, Amity Volunteer Carnival has been held for eight consecutive years. Every year the Carnival attracted thousands of participants from all walks of life. The Carnival and similar events, including Walk for Living Water and Hiking for Charity, have raised whopping funds for people in need of help and achieved fruitful results of philanthropy advocacy.
